

UNITED STATES ARMS CONTROL AND DISARMAMENT AGENCY
WASHINGTON

GENERAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE

November 28, 1969

Dear Dick,

Our November 25 discussion of China may not have made the over-all problem notably less inscrutable but, thanks to [redacted] and two academic consultants, I think that we have a pretty clear picture of how China probably sees nuclear arms and arms control. That is about as much as we could ask.

I am very grateful to you for having made [redacted] available to us. He presented precisely the kind of information about strategic issues that we had hoped to have from CIA. His additional political observations were as illuminating as his responses to our questions were instructive.

His meeting with the Committee as the peer of two of the foremost American academic authorities on China is a tribute to the quality of your staff. I hope that [redacted] personnel file will show the Committee's appreciation for his services.

With renewed thanks for your help.

Sincerely,

John J. McCloy
Chairman

Richard Helms,
Director, Central Intelligence Agency,
